Preparations for the Coney Island Mardi Gras carnival are going on in jumps these days, and from the look of things the mighty pageant will present so many beautiful floats emblematic of the original St. Valentine's scenes from Shakespeare, illustrating Coney Island life and public events and announcing business and commercial enterprises, that it will stretch from 34th to 52nd street and fill the whole of the island.

Ex-Alderman Fred Lundy and his brother will have a float upon which a monster red lobster will be the central figure, with fish, crabs and other inhabitants of the salt seas arrayed about it and carrying it on their backs.

Louis Staudt, undoubted by his $20,000 loss in the St. Valentine's race, will again present a beautiful float representing his popular all-the-year-round hotel and ballroom, while Albert Rosenthal will show the biggest clear Coney Island ever saw on a float, the Rodene Clear Company. Many other dainty and picturesque floats will appear in the industrial division of the great pageant.

The Carpenters' Union will also be represented by a float, on which will be a complete workshop, with carpenters and joiners plying their trade.

The Election for King.

The contest for the honor of reigning for one brief week over Coney, the Isle of Joy, as King of the Mardi Gras Carnival, was hot as the days of the campaign shortly.

The prediction that the election was by no means won, and that it was still nobody's race, is fulfilled, as the record for the past twenty-four hours shows.

Nearly 13,000 votes came in for Corse Payton, of the Lew. Venue Theatre, Brooklyn, sending him to the top again; while there were 6,000 for John E. Connelly and 6,000 for Ellas Rosenthal, George T. Hering, of the Sea Gate Beach Hotel, went up 200 points; John J. "Gorappy-Muggsy" McGraw received 900 votes, and one new candidate appeared in the field, E. A. Burke, of Dreamland, with 500 in a bunch.

In spite of this showing, John E. Connelly is still so confident of his election that he is casting about among his female friends, like the bashful bachelor that he is, for one upon whom to place the diadem of queen. Just now it looks as if it might be Miss Dena Fenerstein, of No. 6 Lewis avenue, Brooklyn, who was his partner in leading the grand march at the Ulmer Park picnic of the associated lodges of Knights of Pythias of Kings and Queens counties, Monday.

Her portrait appears on this page.

Beginning To-Morrow This Store Will Be Open All Day Saturday

WE claim the right to outfit your children for school on just this basis—we have as good styles as can be had anywhere, in as good qualities as are made, for less money than you can find them marked anywhere else in town.

A simple claim and a strong one. We ask you to test it thoroughly and to be governed by your own findings.

We have no trash—nothing that is too cheap. Most firmly do we believe that a child's self-confidence, peace of mind and success at school depend largely on the quality and appearance of the school apparel and equipment provided. We sell nothing that is not good and nothing that will not stay good. But our prices are low because you have given us the largest business that is done in this city—perhaps the largest in the whole world—in clothing, shoes, desk-supplies and et ceteras for children's school wear and use.

Boys' School Suits—The Best in Fabric and Tailoring That Their Prices Have Ever Bought

And a Guarantee On Every One of Them

That's a statement we have frequent occasion to make—but it's always made on investigation and knowledge. It is the simple fact that the suits for boys we are selling at cannot be duplicated in town at anywhere near those prices and have never been equaled at those prices since we have done business in this city.

They are the fruit of a long and hard-fought campaign. We have always made a specialty of low-priced suits for boys and have always "led the town" in the values we gave in them, but these are the best we have ever offered—better even than our $3 and $5 "leaders" of last season.

If the low prices make you wonder as to the quality, remember this:

We Guarantee Every Suit Sold to Give Satisfaction and Will Give a New Suit at Any Time For One That Has Failed to Please You in Its Wear

Double-Breasted Suits—plain or knickerbocker trousers, with or without belt; navy blue $4.85 also mixtures in cassimeres and chevrons; sizes 7 to 17 years.

Double-Breasted Suits—with or without belt; plain or Russian and Sailor Suits—of pure worsted serges $4.85

knickerbocker trousers; neat mixtures; also navy of navy blue, also all the new mixtures; sizes 7 to 10 years; your choice

your choice at $2.85

Boys' Fall Caps at 48c

For small and large boys—Tam-o'-shanters, yacht caps, golf and Eton caps, in a large assortment; all sizes; at 48c

For Others Than Children

We have devoted this advertisement entirely to the needs of children, but you mustn't think we have forgotten the "grown-ups" in our plans for Saturday's selling. Special offers are made to-morrow in

Suits and Skirts for Young Women
Long-Trousler Suits for Youths
Groceries, Wines, Cigars
Women's Fall Coats
Shoes for Men and Women
Women's Fall Waists

Details of these and other special offers in to-night's Journal.
